

SECRETARY OF NAVY KNOX DIES

FORCE ACTION ON PROBE OF WARD SEIZURE

Resolution Calling for Investigation Sent To House By Rules Committee.

WASHINGTON, April 23 — A resolution calling for an investigation of the government's seizure of the Ward Co. plant at Chicago was introduced today in the House of Representatives. The resolution, introduced by Representative Dewey of Illinois, calls for a full investigation of the seizure of the plant and the actions of the government in connection with it. The resolution also calls for a full investigation of the actions of the government in connection with the seizure of the plant and the actions of the government in connection with the seizure of the plant.

Avery Fired Before but Never Carried Out Feet First

CHICAGO, April 23 — Sewell Avery, $100,000-a-year chief executive of Montgomery Ward & Co., was fired from his office by soldiers, says "I've been fired before in my life, but this is the first time they carried me out feet first."

The 69-year-old chairman of the board, ejected from Ward's administration building yesterday after refusing to yield control of the firm to Attorney General Francis Biddle, was quoted in a copyrighted story in the Chicago Daily News.

Avery, in the news story, described the government seizure of the concern and related that Biddle twice had made demands for possession to each of which Avery demurred and repeated that "I did not, could not and would not recognize his authority."

"Thereupon," the silver-haired, fawn-jawed business man was quoted, "Mr. Biddle called in colonial soldiers, and in came the soldiers with the iron hats, and all stood by my desk. Again the same demand was made upon me and again the same reply."

"If you want this plant you will have to take it by force," I said, and thereupon somebody gave a signal, the colonel said 'take him' and the soldiers carried me out and deposited me on the sidewalk."

The news story said that Avery, asked the question, "What are you going to do?" replied "Why keep right on fighting, of course. When you know something is wrong you do not quit because someone takes you out feet first, do you?"

Processed Food Point Values Ordered Changed On Sunday

Some Items Are Made Available Without Points; While Cost of Others Is Increased.

WASHINGTON, April 23 — To-morrow, corn, beans, peas, and four other vegetables will be added Sunday to the list of processed foods housewives may buy without ration stamps.

May values announced today by the office of price administration include a zero point rating for canned spinach, leafy vegetables, blackeye peas and garbanzo beans, a foreign ingredient.

The move making eight additional vegetables point-free was taken to clear store shelves for the new season's pack, now in production.

"The present low values on canned vegetables may be compared to an old-fashioned year-end bargain sale," said OPA Administrator Chester Brown. "When the supply of 'point bargains' has disappeared, higher 'point prices' will be restored to spread new supplies evenly through the year."

Current values on the 2 can sizes of the more important vegetables made point-free are: Tomatoes, 8 points; corn, 8 (vacuum packed), 6; asparagus, 10, beans, 3; leafy greens, 4, and spinach, 6.

In other changes in processed food values, reductions are ordered for all condensed and concentrated soups, the type generally sold from the current four-point value on 10½-ounce cans. Two points are trimmed for clam chowder and other seafood soups, while all other kinds are cut one point.

A number of varieties of fruit butters as well as grape and tomato preserves and apple, grape, mint and plum jellies in one-pound containers are reduced to one point to a new value of two. But raspberry and strawberry jams and preserves, in short supply, are increased to 16 points a pound jar, double the present value.

Also sharply boosted is the value on cranberries and cranberry sauce, up eight points to a new total of 16 for a No. 2 can. Prevailing high-point values on all other canned fruits are maintained.

To slow the rapid movement of tomato catsup and chili sauce, the ration cost of these items goes from 22 points to 30 for a 14-ounce bottle, but spaghetti sauce, packaged with cheese, gets a value of three instead of six points for an eight-ounce jar.

Heavy demand hikes the point value on a 44-ounce can of tomato juice two points, to 18, while the six-pound size will cost 36 points instead of 30.

Also listed on the May chart are point values for home canned foods that are sold. For containers over 14 ounces and including one pound-two ounces, including:

ARMY BARS 2 WARD OFFICIALS FROM BUILDING

Chicago Concern Starts Legal Action To Contest Government Seizure.

CHICAGO, April 23 — The big Montgomery Ward and Company began a legal fight today against government control of its Chicago facilities shortly after two of the firm's top executives—Board Chairman Sewell Avery and President Clement D. Ryan—were barred from their offices.

Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce and federal operating manager of the properties, reported soldiers patrolling the buildings have been instructed to keep the two men out on grounds they have refused to cooperate with the government.

Company counsel then asked Federal Judge William H. Holly to dismiss an injunction obtained late last night by Attorney General Francis Biddle restraining Ward executives from interfering with government operation of the local plants.

After listening to arguments by the firm's attorneys and Biddle, the judge announced he would hear further pleas Monday and probably would render a decision Tuesday.

The legal attack was based in part of the contention that seizure of the properties in keeping with an order from President Roosevelt "was unconstitutional."

The Ward attorneys also stressed the contention that the concern was not engaged in war production.

Orders Hearing

The jurist ordered an immediate hearing and subpoenaed Taylor for testimony in litigation stemming from Avery's refusal to extend an expired contract with a CIO union as he had been directed to do by the War Relocation Authority and the White House and widely watched as a gauge of the WLB and presidential powers.

George Christensen, a Ward attorney, claimed the seizure of the company facilities violated the fourth and fifth amendments to the Constitution, and that allegations in the complaint filed by Biddle were false. The Ward proprietor added that the properties "do not constitute any plant, mine or facility equipped for manufacturing, production or mining of any articles or materials which may be required for the war effort."

Lt. Gilbert Cattanach, one of the officers in charge of the soldier detail which took control of the plant Wednesday, said he had instructions from Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce and government manager of Wards, to prevent either Ryan or Avery from entering.

Shortly thereafter Taylor said the top officials of the great mercantile institution "were barred from the premises" because they both have refused to cooperate with the government.

An exception, Taylor said, was that Avery or Ryan or both would be permitted to enter for a 10:30 a.m. (C.W.T.) shareholders meeting in order to formally call it to order, then adjourn it to noon at the Blackstone hotel as arranged yesterday.

"The moment the meeting adjourns, if they are here, they will be asked to leave," Taylor said.

Bank of Dispute

Yesterday Avery not only was barred but carried out bodily from the plant by two soldiers. The dispute stemmed from Montgomery Ward's refusal to extend a contract with the CIO union at the plant.

Officials of the union involved, the CIO United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employees, disclosed they had begun conferences with "the new management" represented by Taylor and Biddle—on steps to be taken to put into effect WLB orders calling for extension of the contract and its disputed provisions for maintenance of union membership, dues check-off, senior rights, grievance machinery and arbitration of disputes.

Samuel Wolchok, international union president; Leonard Levy, international vice president; Henry B. Anderson, president of local 20, and Francis Heiler, the local's attorney, conferred with Taylor and Biddle, the union statement said.

"We stand ready to give the government the fullest cooperation," Wolchok said.

A temporary restraining order to prohibit Montgomery Ward and Company, Avery and other officials from interfering with the government, issued late last night, will be attacked promptly today, the Ward counsel, Winston, Strawn and Shaw, disclosed.

Silas Strawn, head of the law firm, said Federal Judge William H. Holly, who issued the restraining order, would set a hearing for 3 p.m. today to be held orally to dissolve the order.

Marion County Farms To Hit High Mark in '44 Production

Last Year's Totals of Nearly All Important Food Items Will Be Exceeded, Survey Indicates.

The survey begun several weeks ago by the county AAA organization to see how the plans of Marion county farmers for 1944 measure up with the food goal quotas issued by the federal government is nearing completion and a study of the reports today showed the county is going to produce more of nearly all the important items in the food book, as compared with a year ago.

The survey was made on the basis of checking every tenth farm in the county. A total of 166 farms have been checked to date to serve theoretically as a guide to what 1,660 farmers intend to raise this year. The survey will be completed soon to reflect the plans of the approximately 2,000 farms in the county.

In soybeans, the survey showed farmers plan to increase production about 11 per cent, almost reaching the 12 per cent increase that was set as the county's goal. It is believed this percentage of increase will rise because farmers, unable to follow their usual crop programs because of delays in planting caused by weather, are expected to divert still more acreage to soybeans.

The farmers surveyed plan to raise 11 per cent more corn than a year ago, whereas the county's quota was to produce the same amount as a year ago.

Other items on the list and the percentage of increase or decrease as compared with a year ago are as follows:

Wheat, increase of 12 per cent; tame hay, decrease of 9 per cent; cattle, 10 per cent decrease; cows for milk, 10 per cent increase; sheep and lambs, 10 per cent decrease; hens and pullets for laying, 11 per cent increase; cows for spring farrow, 10 per cent decrease; snows for fall farrow, 11 per cent increase; total chickens to be raised, 9 per cent decrease; turkeys, 8 per cent decrease.

The survey indicated an increase of 15 per cent for barley and 22 per cent for rye, but since comparatively few farms have these crops in their programs, the trend indicated in the sample survey is not expected to be countywide.

7-Year-Old "Home Front Soldier" in Accident at Waldo

That war's casualties are not all on the battle front was proved Wednesday night at Waldo when seven-year-old John Plumley was severely burned as he was attempting to clear a plot for a victory garden.

The young home front soldier was injured when a can of oil being used to burn weeds in the plot exploded at his feet and caused burns from his knees to his shoe tops.

Three boys were at the scene when the mishap occurred. John, his 15-year-old brother Elmer, and a neighbor boy, Paul Lichtenberger, 13. The Lichtenberger boy was using the oil to start a fire when it burst into flames. In the excitement he threw the flaming can, which landed at John's feet and exploded and though his trousers were barely scorched his legs were badly burned.

The boys used a tractor which was near to take John to the hospital where his father, C. C. Plumley, had just returned from work. He was taken to Marion City hospital, where it was reported he had a fair night last night.

The boys had gotten the oil without their parents' permission. Mr. Plumley had just returned from Marion, where he is a truck driver for the Pollak Steel company, and Mrs. Plumley was in Marion attending a party when the accident occurred between 8:30 and 8:45. The Plumley residence is located on the Lynn road about two miles north of Waldo.

Annual Vocational Conference Held by High School Pupils

The third annual Marion public school vocational guidance conference opened this morning with Marion high school students assembled at the Palace theater to hear the main address by Herbert E. Evans, director of personnel for the Ohio Farm Bureau and affiliated organizations.

The conference, planned to help the young men and women choose the vocations for which they are best fitted, includes high school freshmen, sophomores, juniors and senior classes.

Mr. Evans told the students they are the hope of the past generation, who rely upon them to fashion a new and better world and it is up to each one to decide if he is to be a leader in this shaping or just going along for a ride.

He emphasized that many opportunities will have to be certain that they are not lost in the shuffle. Many students let such opportunities go by, other young people refuse to grow up and still others become old while in high school, he said.

HEART ATTACK FATAL SHORTLY AFTER NOON

Became Ill Last Week After Attending Funeral of Business Partner.

WASHINGTON, April 23 — Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, 70, died at 1:08 p.m., F. W. T. today at his Washington home from a heart attack.

The Navy secretary became ill last week.

The death of the secretary was announced to the Navy through-out the world by Acting Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal.

Knox was stricken with a gastro-intestinal upset while attending the funeral in Manchester, N. H., last week of J. A. Muehlberg, his business partner for the last 15 years. He returned to his office Tuesday morning but about two hours later became ill and went to his home. The secretary suffered a severe heart attack as he prepared to go to bed Tuesday afternoon.

Forrestal, in announcing the death of the Navy's loud speaker, system, asked all department employees, many of whom were in lunch in restaurants, to pause in their activities in respect to Knox.

Knox had been in the cabinet since July 11, 1940. President Roosevelt summoned him to serve, as France fell, in the critical month of June 1940 at the same time he asked Henry L. Stimson to become secretary of war. Both men were Republican leaders.

Knox, having been his party's vice presidential nominee in 1936, his death on the eve of the European invasion prevented the rounding out of an official career that began with the defeated allied forces of the world falling back across the channel into Europe, and spanned four years of slow recovery made possible by American entrance into the war and came finally to the apparent verge of the last great phase before victory.

Never Doubted Victory

Knox never doubted that the United States and its allies would be victorious if they moved fast enough and armed in time. In a sense he "qualified" for the cabinet by proving American preparedness in pre-war years and by early advocating that this country take its stand firmly with the forces opposing world fascism.

A long-time critic of President Roosevelt's domestic policy before the war, he saw eye-to-eye with the President on all vigorous foreign policy measures.

By appointing Knox and Stimson, Mr. Roosevelt sought not only to gain tough fighting men to head the armed forces but also to remove their civilian administration from partisan politics.

War was an old and bitter story to Frank Knox. As a young man he was a close friend of Theodore Roosevelt in 1898. During the first World war he became an artillery officer in France, there earning under the title "colonel" by which most of his long-time friends knew him. Few knew his full name — William Franklin Knox.

In this war he regretted that he was too old to go into uniform again, and he gave all his energy to the job of being civilian boss of the biggest American Navy in history. His concept of this job did not call for interference with the trained career leaders of the fleet—the admirals headed by stern-visioned Ernest J. King, the first commander and chief of naval operations.

On the other hand, as he occasionally said, he did call for standing between the Navy and the public, for promoting production of ships and arms and for keeping up the morale of naval fighting units scattered over all the world's oceans and many of its islands.

Traveled Many Miles

Thus Knox became one of Mr. Roosevelt's most traveled cabinet members. His flight record ran into scores of thousands of miles. He flew to Pearl Harbor the day after the Japanese attacked, Dec. 7, 1941. He was at Guadalcanal during an enemy bombing. He was also bombed at Espiritu Santo, in the New Hebrides.

He visited England, Africa and the Mediterranean theater of war last year. From a naval vessel he watched some of the fighting at Naples. He knew from flying victories the way stations and anti-sub bases of Brazil to the south and Newfoundland to the north. He considered it his job to visit the distant garrisons of humanitarians who he could and he encouraged his civilian associates in the Navy to do the same.

When Knox became Navy secretary America was faced, as he saw it, with at least a two-year war and it had an inadequate one. To avert a repetition of this tragedy, the young men and women of today will have to create the fleet.

BOSTON PAYS LAST TRIBUTE TO CARDINAL

BOSTON, April 23 — Through a mist of tears, the archdiocese of Boston and representatives of Catholics from distant parts of the world today mourned a final amen to the earthly career of William Cardinal O'Connell.

In the stately cathedral of the Holy Cross where he pontificated countless times, the highest ranking prelates of the country and representatives of the million or more laymen who knew Boston's only prince of the church in his role as their shepherd, paid final tribute in a solemn pontifical requiem mass over which presided the nation's only living western prelate of the country and archbishop of Philadelphia, who succeeded O'Connell as head of the Catholic hierarchy in America.

Archbishop Amleto G. Cicognani, the delegate of Pope Pius XII, presided at the requiem.

BOMBS DELUGE NAZI AIRFIELDS

German Planes Attack Concentration of Ships in British Coastal Ports.

Restless waves of allied planes advanced over invasion targets in Europe today after the RAF exploded an estimated 3,500 tons of bombs on the aircraft and radar plants of Friedrichshafen and the railroads of northern France and Belgium.

The anxious Germans said they had been hit by a series of raids on the harbors of western England and told of great shipping concentrations in southeast Britain.

American heavy and medium bombers flew over a wide area of France today, attacking at German airfields. One was 130 miles south of Paris at Avord.

In 21 shattering hours, more than 6,000 American and British planes dropped perhaps 15,000 tons of bombs. In two weeks, the allies had dropped 65,000 tons. "The non-stop air invasion, dynamiting a path for Gen. Eisenhower's troops deployed in the light little island of Britain, was in its 11th straight day. The world had never seen anything like it."

Russian fronts were ominously still.

Guerrilla Game On

German, Swedish and Turkish guerrillas wildly when invasion would begin. A Swedish naval commando said between May 2-17, when there is the least difference in high and low tides.

One Berlin correspondent said May 6 at 2. Pravda of Moscow observed "conditions are favorable now for powerful blows not only from the east but from the south and west."

Navy German planes scouted England by night looking for signs of invasion. Nazi troops moved nervously in Denmark, staring Sweden. Probably not 50 men in all the world know when Eisenhower will spring from isolated Britain.

Large Areas Flooded

As Rivers Break Levees

Swollen dangerously high by the flooded Missouri and Illinois rivers, the Mississippi today tore at levees protecting Duplo and Harrisonville, Ill., forcing authorities to order evacuation immediately of lowland residents in those districts. The three rivers already have torn open levees and inundated over 500,000 acres in 58 counties of Missouri and Illinois. To the west, the Arkansas river in Oklahoma had its third highest flood stages, and in Wichita, Kans., flood damage to homes from the same river was estimated by the Red Cross at more than $1,000,000. County Engineers reported that damage to bridges near Wichita totaled $147,000 more.

The floods have taken a toll of 24 lives in Illinois and Missouri.

BUCYRUS — BUCYRUS schools will again follow the plan adopted last year of a pre-school age group physical examination through arrangements with family doctors. Prior to last year a clinic brought all pupils who will enter school for the first in the fall to the school for their physical examinations. The plan more recently adopted is a time saver for doctors, local school heads have explained.

WARD

The order, petitioned for late yesterday by Attorney General Biddle, ended two days of resistance by Sewell L. Avery, the company's board chairman, to government seizure of the plant.

The seizure, accomplished after two failures, was made Wednesday with the aid of federal troops and the night court proceedings followed a day of many developments in the case which is being watched as a gauge of the President's power to take over a business claiming non-war activity and a test of the war labor board's ability to enforce its directives.

Highlighting the day's events was the forcible ejection of Avery, the 69-year-old chief executive, from his office. His removal by two soldiers was ordered by Biddle after the attorney general said Avery refused to cooperate with government officials and maintained he still was the boss.

Judge Holly's order not only enjoined interference by company officials but called upon them to surrender company records, which had been asked by Biddle in his petition for the injunction. He set a hearing for 2 p. m. today on the dissolution, modification or extension of the order.

The night court session came as a surprise, the proceedings being unofficially scheduled for today. None of the company officials or counsel was present upon issuance of the order, which directs the company to make available corporate records to the government director, Wayne C. Taylor, assistant secretary of commerce.

Judge Holly told reporters, "Oh, I wouldn't issue that kind of an order without giving them (Wards) a chance to be heard."

Judge Holly explained the night session was held because "there was danger of irreparable injury being caused to the plaintiff (government) . . . by virtue of the fact that the defendants have interfered and are threatening to continue

DEWEY SEES DANGER TO U. S.

Worrier Expresses Concern Over American Foreign Policy Methods.

(The Associated Press)
 RK, April 25 — Gov. Dewey, expressing concern over our foreign policy methods, says the United States is in a "dangerous position" because of the "lack of a solid relationship with the peace and stability of the world."
 Dewey, running for the presidential nomination, made an appeal to the nation's newspapers last night to discuss the "most elaborate state affairs" brought to the attention of those who heard him.

Farington, general of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, said that he was "in a position to say that Dewey is out of his mind when he says that the United States is in a dangerous position because of the lack of a solid relationship with the peace and stability of the world."

not primarily because of the words "dangerous position," Dewey said, because we see reported in our newspapers developments and other statements of government officials which do not seem to fit with the words Mr. Dewey used.

Because we cannot be sure of our foreign policy, being handled by the state and to what extent it is being handled privately.

What troubles us is not the objectives of our policy, but whether that policy is being carried out in accordance with constitutional principles.

He said that foreign policy reflects the will of the people. The people were agreed overwhelmingly, he said, on these four objectives: to carry the war to total victory, to cooperate with other nations in organizing a structure of peace backed by a force to prevent future wars, to promote worldwide economic stability.

Dewey said the mutual measures to disarm Germany and Japan and prevent a resumption of hostilities after the war will not have permanent value unless we fall within the setting of a durable cohesion between Britain and ourselves, together with Russia and the experience of two world wars.

Dewey said, "has shown us that unprovoked aggression against a freedom-loving people anywhere is an attack upon the peace of the whole world."

Dewey also ended the administration on domestic affairs, saying: "It is not enough to talk about a more abundant life if the actions that follow the words leave millions unemployed and dependent upon government for a bare existence. It is not enough to talk about economic security and then pursue policies which promote insecurity. It is not enough to talk about the enterprise system and then pursue a course of action that stifles enterprise."

He drew loud applause when he said he rejected the proposition that "Uncle Sam must play the role of a benevolent but slightly 'smile' gentleman, who seeks to purchase the good will of his poor relations by distributing among them the dwindling remains of his youthful earnings."

Other speakers at the dinner, closing session of the ANPA convention, were Eric A. Johnston, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and Rear Admiral Aaron A. Merrill, soon to become director of public relations for the Navy.

Johnston said that whereas there were formerly three primary economic estates—management, labor and agriculture, "now we have a fourth—huge, sprawling power-hungry government."

J. H. ALLEN TO HEAD KENTON CAMPAIGN

KENTON, April 25—James H. Allen today was named chairman of the McKenney community hospital fund drive and immediately launched activities leading to a collection of $100,000 for erection of a new two-story brick building on the old A. K. Johnson lot, East Franklin street, Kenton, which were purchased recently by the hospital board.

Ralph K. Fitch, president of the McKenney hospital board of trustees, said the money will be sought by voluntary contributions and will be used to erect the fireproof building, designed to house 42 adult beds and eight bassinets for babies. A surgery, as well as a modern nursery and maternity department is included in the architectural plans.

"Spot" Receives Medal with Canine Dignity

MACARTHUR, NIMITZ MAP PACIFIC PLANS

By The Associated Press
U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, April 25.—Adm. Chester W. Nimitz and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who command a giant battle and extending for 6,000 miles from the captured Aleutians to the tip of Japanese-held Java, have emphasized the forging of solid links between their command areas by holding their first conference of the Pacific war.

One result of their March meeting at MacArthur's headquarters for the purpose of achieving "a maximum of cooperative effort" became apparent in the swiftly concluded invasion of Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea.

Admiral Nimitz' warships helped destroy 101 Japanese planes and provided the curtain of fire under which General MacArthur's soldiers landed with small losses to roll back the feeble opposition. It was the first large-scale use of Admiral Nimitz' fleet in direct support of a MacArthur invasion.

At MacArthur's advanced headquarters in New Guinea, Associated Press War Correspondent C. Yates McDaniel wrote today concerning the recent conference that the next step "might place equally strong units of MacArthur's army and air forces under Nimitz' command."

MacArthur's and Nimitz' command areas merge at the Solomon islands. The Solomons area has been under the immediate command of Adm. William F. Halsey, with General MacArthur Alexander's funeral home. Sur-in overall command of both that South Pacific and his own southwest Pacific sectors. McDaniel said the virtual reconquest of the Solomons has all but ended the necessity for Admiral Halsey's semi-independent command but his dispatch did not clarify the admiral's future.

Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur for some time now have integrated the actions of their airforces. Nimitz' planes have kept pounding away at Japanese bases on the eastern end of the Carolines. MacArthur's planes have been hitting Woleai in the western Carolines consistently, and both Nimitz and MacArthur's planes have been engaged in a two-way attack on Truk and other enemy islands in the Central Carolines.

Vice Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid, commander of allied naval forces in the southwest Pacific, participated in the March conference.

Gen. Patton Gets It Again

GEN. PATTON, it appears, has been carried away in his extravagant predilection that the United States, Great Britain and Russia are destined to rule the world by the same big wind of enthusiasm that has filled the sails of a good many others in less commendable positions.

The United States, Great Britain and Russia are destined to hold tremendous responsibility for world order by virtue of their possession of power. But only in the imaginations of power worshippers are they destined to function as rulers, in the accepted meaning of the word.

Perhaps Gen. Patton merely meant that the three nations will possess potential power to rule and chose the wrong mode of expression; that would be the most charitable view of his latest indiscretion. Officially, of course, there will have to be a charitable view.

Any evidence that the upshot of the Allied war effort is a planned imperialism would be extremely harmful to the Allied cause. It would alienate the South American republics, China, the small nations of Europe. It would shake a large part of public opinion in the United States.

Imperialism is potential in the outcome of the war, but not explicit. An Axis victory would have meant ruling the world. An Allied victory, if it is to be worth the effort, will mean that the governments with the power to rule the world will use that power to help the sovereign nations of the world rule themselves. Gen. Patton has been indiscreet, but he may have helped to clear up a point of dangerous confusion.

The Man Behind a Good Job

SUPERINTENDENT LYNN S. BLACK of the Ohio state highway patrol was the man behind a job that was done so well it won universal praise. His untimely death—he was only 47—robs the state of a valuable administrator.

In the decade since the highway patrol began to operate in an atmosphere of watchful skepticism, it has overcome most of the double which assailed it in the stage of theory. It has done this largely because Col. Black succeeded in training its carefully selected personnel to behave in the best tradition of law enforcement. His patrolmen looked and acted the part they were intended to play in maintenance of public security. They were efficient, courteous and able.

The esprit de corps their first superintendent helped them develop is a portent of continued success in the years to come. Ohio can be grateful that it found as able a man as Col. Black to lay a sound foundation for the highway patrol.

That Settles That

THERE is not the slightest question of any cession of British territories, not the slightest," declares Prime Minister Churchill in the house of commons, answering a question about British bases leased to the United States—and that settles that.

Mr. Churchill is only confirming what he said previously—that he did not become prime minister to dispose of British property. His position is clear, which is the way it should be. It might be vastly more expedient for him to pussyfoot on these matters, but he is saving a lot of time and confusion by saying what is on his mind. He is saying it not only in England, but in the United States.

There will continue to be in this country, in the routine of discussion both inside and outside of congress, a certain amount of talk about British policy. There are some Americans who claim to know what is proper for the British government, just as there are some Britons who have ideas about the United States. But thanks to Mr. Churchill, it is plain to the Americans who have ideas about his job that he, as the responsible party, intends to run Britain to suit his own countrymen. To the extent that they can take the hint and to the extent that the British understand that the same rule applies in reverse, international relations between the United States and Great Britain will have a better chance to get stabilized on a basis of mutual respect. They would have a better chance between all governments if they could be put on that basis.

International Monetary Fund, Already Approved, Basis of Post-War Plan.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The first definite working basis for a post-war plan has been agreed upon by 34 nations in the international monetary fund announcement by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau.

This is not the Morgenthau international bank idea, but of the Keynes and White financial arguing and planning. Mr. Morgenthau said he announced this acceptance of currency stabilization principles because leading congressmen and government officials had approved. If he applies that same reasoning to his bank notion, it is already dead—and, frankly, I suspect it is.

Probably the reason it was not advanced along with this stabilization move is that Mr. Morgenthau realized not even his own cabinet would accept that idea which seeks to establish an international bank with private American money (guaranteed by the treasury) for rehabilitation of war damage.

Okayed by Conservatives. This currency stabilization, however, was approved even by the publican Senator Vandenberg, and other Republicans not likely to be drawn in easily on a questionable arrangement. One Republican congressman stomped out of one treasury meeting into the headlines with an assertion that the agreement would give away American gold, to the danger of our currency, but Mr. Morgenthau says this errand conference went in and came in three different times.

True also, Russia hung back. Mr. Morgenthau was getting ready to announce the agreement without Russia 24 hours earlier. This inner pressure brought no less an authority than Stalin's foreign minister Molotov into action, and Russia signed at the last minute.

Only some international bankers remained in the end to complain and protest quietly, but their influence is so small as to make their complaint insignificant.

Everyone could sign and every-

Valuable Book for Soldiers

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—If the number of questions hurled at me in the last few months by discharged soldiers and sailors is any criterion, the Army finally has answered a long-felt, growing need in the issuance of a little four-by-five booklet, entitled "Information For Soldiers Going Back to Civilian Life."

With only 31 pages, it is necessarily a primer that goes no further than two-times-two in covering the thousands of problems discharged veterans will have to face. The adjutant general's office, under whose direction it was prepared, explains it would take volumes to answer all the questions in specific cases. Besides, those volumes would soon be out of date because new laws are being passed constantly. The "GI Bill of Rights" which will ramp a lot of the laws that now apply to men and women soon to be returned by the thousands weekly to civilian life is just one example.

Savings

While national income has doubled during war, Americans have increased their rate of savings five-fold to establish a record of thrift never before attained in the history of the country, says the Anti-Inflation Bulletin of the Life Insurance Companies of America.

In 1943, savings amounted to nearly one dollar out of every four of national income, compared with less than one out of 10 dollars in 1939, first year of the war. In totals, 1943 savings were five and one-half times those of 1939.

In 1929, savings amounted to slightly more than one of every 10 dollars of national income. At the bottom of the depression, in 1932, the ratio was one out of 20 dollars.

War Bonds are first as the nation's thrift medium. The total in 1943 was $11,100,000,000 compared with $8,000,000,000 in 1942, $2,800,000,000 in 1941 and $900,000,000 in 1940. Life insurance ranks high with increases in policyholders' equities of $2,790,000,000 in 1943, $2,142,000,000 in 1942, $1,929,000,000 in 1941 and $1,639,000,000 in 1940.

one could agree, because the declaration of principles did not commit anyone finally. The final agreement will come up at a world monetary conference to be called by Mr. Roosevelt within the next few months.

Some improvements will have to be negotiated then because the statement of principles leaves many wide open loopholes, largest of which seems to be the opportunity for any nation to have a sound international financial standing while being broke at home. Nothing yet announced would prevent any ruined currency from being accepted internationally as if it were sound.

There are probably many other defects in this agreement, dealing as it does with the most complicated of all the world subjects which only a handful of experts thoroughly understand.

But, basically, the idea here is to create an international fund through which currencies may be bought and sold. As in all other postwar schemes, we contribute most of the money.

Purpose of Fund. But, in this case, the assumption is that the revolving fund will merely be used for the legitimate purpose of stabilizing world currencies—not for financing ventures, trade, or the like, capital of one nation against another.

Of the $8,000,000,000 fund, we will contribute nearly one-third, more than twice as much as Britain, nearly three times as much as Russia, but voting power is to be based relatively on contributions, and, therefore, our authority will be commensurate with our contribution.

This may not amount to as much as it seems, because we will not have enough of a vote to initiate any action, but the size of our vote will be sufficient to veto any unattractive action against our interest.

The basic idea behind it all is to protect our interest in the gold standard as a measuring stick for currencies. Our contribution will be made in gold (leaving more than enough to protect the bookkeeping backing of our gold currency at 40 cents on the dollar).

Russia's Gold. Every other nation at the conference except Russia put on the table a statement of its gold holdings, and its ability to meet the proposed requirements of contributing a portion of its advance to the fund in gold, (25 per cent of its contribution or 10 per cent of its gold stock, whichever is smaller).

At the coming world conference, however, Russia will have to disclose her gold position if she chooses to follow the cooperating line.

In short, this is a broad statement of primary principles in broad language. It is far better than, and far different from, the Keynes and White plans which raised such recent loud discussions.

If the coming conference plugs the loopholes satisfactorily, the first of the international post-war arrangements will be finally accepted before the end of the war.

of all service men and women as soon as they receive discharge orders. Those who don't receive one should ask for it.

The pamphlet covers a multitude of subjects for such a little book. It explains what part of your GI equipment you may keep; how long you may wear your uniform after discharge, and how to wear label buttons and decorations on civilian attire. Your "report of separation" and "discharge certificate" should be carefully guarded, for these are now as vital in many of your dealings as passports would be in a foreign country.

Few men, or their families, realize that within five days after discharge, they have to report immediately to their local draft board. Failure to do so already has a number of youngsters in trouble but no cases reported. If the board is very serious, preliminary report may be made by letter. After that, the same rules about keeping your local board informed of changes of address and dependency apply to discharged veterans as to civilians.

Advice About Jobs

Keeping a record of his Army serial number is another veteran's responsibility, even if he doesn't think now that he will ever forget it.

There is a whole section devoted to how to get the old job back or to find a new one. Here again, only essentials are covered and in one-syllable words, but with few exceptions, they cover all the ground.

How to handle insurance: the rights of disabled veterans under existing laws; relationship with the now all-important Veterans Administration; pensions; relief; education; vocational training; legal protection; and social security are all explained.

The adjutant general's office expects to issue new editions as the pending veterans' bills become law.

The quantity of asbestos mined in the United States averages between 1½ and 4 per cent of the amount fabricated into various products, such as textiles and shingles, by American manufacturers. A large amount of the imported asbestos comes from Canada, which has large deposits near Thetford.

Cities and Their Post-War Planning

Poll Indicates Four Billion Dollar Work Backlog.

INTERNATIONAL City Managers association has polled officials of 1,072 cities of more than 10,000 population to obtain a comprehensive picture of municipal post-war planning.

Based on replies from more than 850 cities, the association has reached the following conclusions about the trend of city planning in the years after the war.

About 60 per cent of the cities represented have regular or special planning agencies, or both. These agencies are spending millions of dollars in 1944 drawing blueprints.

Value of local capital improvements to be undertaken within five years of the end of the war is more than four billion dollars for 167 cities of more than 25,000 population and about $157,000,000 for 183 cities of less than 25,000 population.

To obtain needed funds, cities are putting their financial houses in order, reducing debts and building up reserves. Many communities expect to finance a large part or all of their projects from taxes or current taxes.

Airport construction ranks seventh in the list of projects, with sewers and sewage disposal facilities first, streets and highways second.

From half to two thirds of the projects may be classed as new construction, the remainder as deferred maintenance.

At least half of the four-billion total is for eight large cities, all with more than half a million population. New York City alone accounts for more than one billion dollars, as does Chicago. Detroit and Philadelphia are in the quarter billion class, Cleveland $150,000,000, Milwaukee $120,000,000, St. Louis $60,000,000, Boston and Buffalo $15,000,000 each.

TWELVE of the 183 cities in the smaller population group have scheduled post-war capital improvements valued at $2,500,000 or more each: Morgantown, W. Va., $5,476,000; Iron Mountain, Mich., $3,500,000; Hickory, N. C., $3,000,000; Provo, Utah, $4,490,000; Batavia, N. Y., $4,000,000; Mankato, Minn., $3,981,000; Panama City, Fla., and Harrison, N. J., $3,000,000; Valley Stream, N. Y., $2,811,000; and Janesville, Wis., $2,500,000.

Interesting in this connection is the fact that the Wisconsin city, Janesville, of 23,000 population, with $2,500,000 in post-war capital improvements on tap, already has $775,000 in post-war reserve funds set aside for the post-war period. (Also, Janesville has drawn up blueprints for 30 per cent of its post-war projects and has preliminary plans for 50 per cent.)

While it is apparent that many of the reporting cities have little more than lists of projects they hope to construct or rebuild after the war, many other communities have taken the initiative and have designs and specifications underway.

Among cities with 50 per cent of their post-war construction blueprints completed for half or more of their projects are Richmond, Va., 75 per cent or more than $13,000,000 in projects; Wichita, Kan., 70 per cent of $1,700,000 in projects; Cambridge, Mass., 50 per cent of $3,500,000 in projects; Corpus Christi, Tex., 50 per cent of $25,000,000 in projects; Provo, Utah, 50 per cent of $4,490,000 in projects; and Newport News, Va., 50 per cent of $7,049,000 in projects. Ames, Ia., Compton, Cal., Escanaba, Mich., Grand Junction, Colo., Morgantown, W. Va., and Winchester, Va., are among the smaller communities with 50 per cent of their post-war plans in various stages of completion.

Between 50 and 60 per cent of the 513 cities plan to build needed public buildings—including city halls, police and fire stations, schools, hospitals and municipal garages.

INDICATING the scope of new construction on tap for the immediate post-war period, according to the poll, are some of the major projects to be undertaken first in the larger cities:

Major projects in Detroit are sewers, schools and low-cost housing; in Los Angeles—sewage disposal plant, water system, expansion, major traffic plan; in New York City—completion of the Idlewild airport, new health centers, schools and libraries; Philadelphia—sewage disposal facilities, waterworks extension, highway construction; Buffalo—new bridge, incinerator, municipal garage; Denver—highways, water supply facilities, flood control; Kansas City—traffic ways and interregional highways, flood protection, recreational areas.

Though information on municipal debt reduction is sketchy, the poll shows 85 per cent of the 273 cities supplying this information have reduced their debt since 1940, and 156 of the local governments cut their debt by 10 per cent or more. Some of the larger cities—those of more than 25,000 population—reducing debt by 25 per cent or more are Milwaukee, Atlanta, Portland, Ore., Duluth, Minn., Flint, Mich., Omaha and Long Beach, Cal. Milwaukee is debt-free.

The poll showed that 16 of the smaller cities have reduced their debt by 50 per cent or more, the communities including Attleboro, Northbridge, West Springfield and Winthrop, Mass.; Benton Harbor, Escanaba, and Holland, Mich.; Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Fostoria, O.; Menasha, Wis.; Lawrence, Kan., and Logan, Utah.

Belated Confession to a Criminal Past

We see where some men have landed in for selling some little pills on the claim dropped into a gas tank, they will incite mileage. Well, we don't know anything about this particular case, but the arrest makes a little for back in our boyhood we were a party to a similar project.

With old Bob Hyman, who used to be on the New Haven Register, we became England agents for a gasoline energizer. Hyman shared our burning year to get business. We read about pill that would make pep to gasoline. Was the cost only at 12 cents a gallon, but it was thought positively.

We acquired the agency by the simple process of putting up a few dollars and providing address to which the pellets could be sent. We received several crates of them. So natives tried them free and announced that not only increased mileage but gave a wings. However, nobody seemed inclined to them out on a cash basis. The pills must be Bob Hyman's cellar even now.

By Truman Twell

"A cat's tail may not make the cat," put T. Manville Twell the other day, between 1 "but what I always say is that the least he do is keep it spruced up. He owes that to his public."

This is what comes of too much well-tuned praise. T. Manville's ability to understand the spoken word is likely to prove his doing yet.

Having heard his fine, bushy tail praise extravagantly by visitors, he is losing his of balance. He takes more care of that tail a woman takes of her complexion.

Besides the hours he spends making it and keeping every hair in position, right up to the seven white ones on the tip, he is practicing tricks. One of these almost is him.

The near-tragedy occurred late at night, the household had retired. Events leading to the mishap were as follows:

There had been company and, as usual, Manville was taking his role of host. He kept going in and out of the room and making the rounds to see if everybody comfortable.

Every time he passed through, he held his in a different position. One time it would be perpendicular. The next time he would be arranged with three inches on the end at a angle. He also featured a loop and a kink, a corkscrew specialty.

It was plain to everybody the ham was hanging to the balcony, but they loved it and asking for encores. Someone has to entertain, and T. Manville was just holding up his end.

Apparently, after the visitors left and everybody had retired, the attention turned his completely and he began to work up a act for some future occasion. The accident incomplete, because he was too ashamed to about it afterward, but the story can be pieced out from the evidence.

About 2:15 there was a piercing scream from the living room and a series of sized moans. Of course everybody leaped out bed and rushed downstairs to see what was happening.

There sat T. Manville in the big chair with the trembling paws to untie a knot in tail. The harder he pulled, the tighter knot and the louder his moans. But with aid of helping hands he finally got the untied and collapsed with a sigh of "and."

EUROPE

and German authorities in Holland were preparing to blast the great dykes which guard the entrance to the Zuider Zee and flood a huge area containing the populous cities of Rotterdam and Amsterdam.

Two Swedes, the first to reach Sweden from Denmark since the Germans clamped tight control on travel between the two countries last Monday, said the Danes at first thought the Germans were invading Sweden when the drastic measures were taken.

The German communiques asserted German motor torpedo boats sank three British ships totaling 9,100 tons in an attack on a convoy off the south coast of England this morning, and that the German air force's attack against shipping concentrated off the British southwest coast last night were effective.

The new travel restrictions, effective last midnight, supplemented others already in force. One earlier decree had banned travel between Britain and Ireland. Another keeps diplomats of all countries except the United States, Russia and the British commonwealth within Britain for the time being.

Joining the Germans in the invasion-guessing game, Capt. Karl Henrik Falkman, a Swedish naval commentator, expressed the view this morning that the assault may come in broad daylight some time between May 2 and May 17.

The Berlin correspondent of the Swiss newspaper Die Tat said foreign newspapers were betting on the German capital were betting on the attack to take place between May 6 and June 7. In Ankara a Turkish commentator put in his words declaring: "We can take it for granted the next few days or weeks will witness the most important developments of the war."

A Moscow dispatch said the Russian newspaper Pravda observed that "conditions are favorable now for powerful blows to be dealt from the east but the south and west."

In a Swedish broadcast recorded by the ministry of information in London, Falkman said it appeared the exact date of the invasion may be set to hit the time when there is the least difference between high and low tide.

"The smallest difference occurs about 48 hours after the quarter of the moon," he said. "The moon's first quarter will be April 30 and the last quarter May 15."

The British lost 36 planes last night in the record daylight attacks yesterday, nine heavy bombers and nine lesser planes were lost, and three heavy bombers were destroyed. Chief targets of the night were Monzen in Belgium and Aulnoye in France. Mosquitoes struck Stuttgart; other planes laid mines. Targets yesterday were military citadels, railroads, airbases, road junctions and the like—mainly in northern France and Belgium where invasion threats are the most real.

Weather again grounded the bulk of the allied Mediterranean air fleets.

Rotary Club Minstrel Show Given Again at Kiwanis Ladies Night Party

The Cotton Blossom Minstrel Show, with songs, dances and a return engagement before the footlights when they appeared as guest performers at the Kiwanis club ladies' night party Thursday evening at Hotel Harding. With the exception of a few changes, the cast was made up of the Rotarians who staged the show at a Rotary club ladies' night party early in March.

A specialty on the program was the appearance of Billy Bryant of Ohio River Show Boat fame, who entertained with patter and song and also lent a hand hard stage.

A capacity crowd greeted the performers as Wilson B. Tuxy, intercomedian, opened the show with the traditional "Gentlemen Be Seated." Seated in the front row were C. E. Jones, Charles Hales, Reuben Anderson, W. E. Orrell, Dr. E. H. Morgan, Wendell Willkie, and others.

For the old Paul Williams as a "world traveler," gave a talk on "Africa" and the grand affair was a burlesque melodrama "Saved by the Bell," presented by Mrs. Aubrey Wright, the farmer's daughter, Wendell Willkie, the villain and a "Rotarian," W. E. Orrell, the hero and a "Kiwanian," and Dr. Morgan, the aged father.

Paul Bachman, armed with a shotgun, "preserved order" and also served as stage manager. Music was provided by Edgar W. Barnhart and Miss Virginia Groves.

Preceding the minstrel show, Billy Wagner, accompanied by Mrs. John L. Cave, sang two numbers, "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen" and "Mother of Mine," and Miss Ruth Wise interpreted a dramatic speech from "Silver Cord."

Henry A. Krigbaum, president of the Kiwanis club, welcomed the more than 200 members and guests and the program was in charge of John Dowler, Dr. V. C. Kiesel was introduced as the newest Kiwanian and Mrs. Kiesel as the newest "queen" Mr. Tuxy announced that Billy Bryant, whose show boat has been taken over by the government for the duration, is going to tour the state in a minstrel show and would come to Marion for a week.

Guests included E. E. Holt, president of Rotary club, and Mrs. Holt, John F. Lacey, president of the Lions club and Mrs. Lacey, Mrs. Ann Knick, R. L. Goettling, Mr. and Mrs. John Glackin, Mrs. F. S. McNeal, Miss Ruth Wise, Mrs. Gladys Alter, Mr. and Mrs. William Isaly, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Petrich, Mr. and Mrs. Collie, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hunt, Mrs. Miss Elizabeth Zachman, Mrs. Charles Hales, Mrs. B. H. Buettel, Mrs. George Albr, Mrs. Edgar Barnhart, Mrs. Wilson B. Tuxy, Mrs. Paul Williams, Mrs. Wendell Willkie, Mrs. E. H. Morgan, Mrs. W. D. Hales, Ralph G. Wright, Seaman and class, Lewis Marsh and Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. A. Anderson, Marshall Briett, Mrs. Paul Lavender, Mrs. Ralph Carhart, Mrs. William H. Hales, Mrs. F. W. Hales, Mrs. J. B. Hales, Mrs. Philip Guthrie, Miss Edna Dutton, Miss Bertina Wilder, Miss Ella Meers, Pat Robert G. McGraw, Chris Turfitt. Out-of-town guests included Miss Virginia Groves of Montpellier, and Staff Sgt. Harold H. Case also of Montpellier, who has just returned from 26 months' service in New Guinea, and Mrs. George Maaske of Aurora, Ill.

The Japanese occupy the territory through which this strategic railway runs north of the Yellow river—the Hoang-ho, often referred to as "China's sorrow" because of the untold millions of lives lost through generations as the result of the frightful annual floods. However, between the Yellow river and the Yangtze, some 500 miles south, the invaders do not hold the railroad. They occupy a considerable strip of territory south of the Yangtze, but between there and the south coast the Chinese are still in possession, barring the Canton-Hongkong area. The Nipponese hold China's coastal ports all around.

Thus the task which the Japanese have set for themselves, if the Chinese commander's estimate is correct, is to get astride the railroad at least in the zone between the Yellow river and the Yangtze, and if possible southward to the coast. Control between the two rivers in itself would greatly strengthen the enemy position and further threaten the capital of Chungking itself.

There are two other objectives which the invaders likely have. The 1,800 square miles or more which they already have overrun along the Yellow river is a "vast wheat growing area that is expected to produce a record crop this season. The Japanese need this grain for their armies, and are concerned with the fact that millions of Chinese are dependent on it to keep them from starvation.

MARK "FINIS" TO CONQUEST OF HOLLANDIA

Big Enemy Base in New Guinea Falls Without Show of Strong Resistance.

By The Associated Press
The five-day conquest of the big Japanese air base at Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, was marked "complete" today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur without a single show of strong enemy resistance, but the Japanese apparently don't intend to give up so easily in the, falling invasion of India.

Southeast Asia allied headquarters reported heavy allied reinforcements are pouring into the Hollandia sector, advance point of the enemy's Indian drive, and Tokyo radio said Nipponese troops have launched a general offensive at Kohima. Allied and enemy planes were active.

A tank-supported British battalion, landing west of the allied base at Hollandia, has driven the Japanese invaders of northern India from several of their strong points in that sector. Gen. Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

The bulletin added that the allies were making steady progress in "very difficult country." Troops Move Quickly

In five days, MacArthur's forces in New Guinea have won three airbases at Hollandia within bombing range of the southern Philippine Islands, plus one at Altipate 150 miles southeast and another at Madang, 280 miles farther southeast. In addition, MacArthur announced the fall of the Japanese-held town of Alexishaven, 10 miles north of Madang.

Only 274 Japanese were killed and two dozen captured in the five-day campaign, MacArthur said. Three thousand veteran enemy Marines had been drawn out of the Hollandia area by preliminary assaults and probably more than 4,000 fled to the hills rather than battle invading Americans.

The commanding general of the allied troops at Altipate estimated 51,000 Japanese are trapped in a 200-mile stretch of coastal area southeast of Altipate.

Raid Weakens Fields
Fifth air force planes, already operating from the Hollandia airbase, staged a 60-ton raid on the four weak airfields 250 miles southeast of Hollandia and a Navy Liberator bomber sank 10 troop-laden enemy barges, two cargo ships, fired two fishing boats and shot down an enemy bomber, 700 miles northwest of Hollandia.

Other allied planes ranged far into the central Pacific to blast Woleai atoll in the western Carolines and Truk and Saipan in the central Carolines.

Pressing mightier blows against Japan's Pacific defenses, MacArthur and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, allied commander-in-chief.

County School Board Discusses Test Plan

A discussion was held on the possibilities of the pre-school readiness test now being given to pupils who will start in Marion County schools this fall at a meeting Thursday night of Marion County school board. Parents have shown increasing interest in this test. T. M. Mills, county superintendent, reported and the advantages are recognized by parents and teachers alike.

IRONTON MAN KILLED IN FALL FROM TRAIN

Mangled Body Found Along Track Near Caledonia.

James Weaver, 30, Negro, of Ironton, was killed when it is believed he fell from a moving passenger train half a mile east of Caledonia early yesterday morning. The body was found, badly mangled, along the Erie railroad track shortly before noon by a section employee. Search for the body was started after railroad officials here had been notified by the dispatcher's office at Galloway to be on the lookout for a man changing on the outside of a baggage coach of a westbound New York Central passenger train, No. 41, around 5 a. m.

Sheffield J. W. Harvill and Corporal Richard L. Morgan were called. The coroner pronounced the death accidental.

The body was taken to the Tinton-Alton funeral home in Caledonia and will be sent to the Galloway funeral home at Ironton tonight.

According to information received from Ironton the man had left there Wednesday. The body was identified through a ration book and his mother and stepfather living at Ironton were notified.

In the Pacific, conferred prior to the Hollandia invasion to achieve a maximum of cooperative effort in the two commanders' converging operations.

A Chinese headquarters spokesman reported a Japanese drive on Laying in northern Burma province has been driven back 10 miles and another enemy column advancing on Loxan from the east has been halted.

Chinese also announced Japanese troops captured Chinghsien April 22.

Lecture-Recital Club Wins State Activities Award

Marion Lecture-Recital club won the gavel for having the highest club rating at the 26th Annual State Convention of the Ohio Federation of Music clubs which is being held in Columbus yesterday and today. Clubs are graded on a point system according to their various activities and projects throughout the past year.

Mrs. O. D. Anderson, representing the local club as a delegate was presented the gavel by Mrs. J. C. Woods, of Marion, state club-incoming chairman during the business meeting of yesterday afternoon.

A program of church music at 8 tonight at the Broad Street Presbyterian church will close the two-day session. Walter Hudgatt, music critic for the Cleveland Press and curator of musical acts at the Cleveland Museum will be the guest organist. This noon the speaker at the American Music luncheon was Herbert Elwell, music critic for the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Highlighting the War Service Dinner last night was the presentation of a "National Service Citation with honors" given by the War Council of America to the Federation for services in Ohio (camp) Principal speakers at the banquet were Mrs. J. H. Chen of Columbus and Dr. Chester Foster Dunham of Toledo.

Two-year war production of the U. S. automotive industry totals more than five billion dollars in aircraft, nearly two billion in tanks and more than four billion in other military vehicles and spare parts.

Even on your busiest days be sure your House Cleaning is Sanitary House Cleaning ...for Greater Health Protection!

HAVE YOU noticed how some days turn out to be extra busy ... crammed with things to do? Yet, busy as you may be, you can't afford to neglect family health, especially now when there are fewer civilian doctors and medical facilities. A simple yet important health-protective measure is the use of Clorox in routine cleansing. Cultivate the healthful habit of Clorox-Cleanliness ... the type of cleanliness recommended by health authorities.

WHY TAKE CHANCES!

"When it's CLOROX-CLEAN it's hygienically clean!"

In the Kitchen make sure sanitation is not slighted, even on those extra busy days, for infection dangers can spread rapidly. High standards of sanitation are easily attained with Clorox. It disinfects, deodorizes, also removes stains from dishcloths, china, glass, tile, enamel, linoleum, wood surfaces; and it destroys mold ... reducing risk of food spoilage.

In the Bathroom, too, protective cleansing measures are important as an added health safeguard. For in the bathroom germs may be easily transmitted and as a result, it can be the most dangerous of all home "danger zones" ... unless made sanitary. Make hygienic cleanliness the rule by using Clorox in routine cleansing of washbasins, bathtubs and toilets.

In Laundering, Clorox gently bleaches dingy white cottons and linens snowy-white (brightens fast colors); makes them fresh, sanitary ... removes stains, scorch, mildew; and Clorox lessens rubbing, thus prolonging the life of hard-to-replace linens. By using Clorox in regular laundering process you secure whiter, brighter washes, greater health protection.

Clorox is ultra-refined, free from caustic, an exclusive, patented quality-feature. It has the same full strength, same high quality standards, today as always. Simply follow directions on the label which also lists many important personal uses. Always ask for Clorox by name.

Baseball Team Has Biggest Workout with 22 on Field

The Marion baseball team, now in the making, had its biggest practice yesterday with 22 players romping over the diamonds at Lincoln park, and Manager Grover Hartley was awaiting the arrival of eight or nine more today and tomorrow.

He planned a series of workouts for the remainder of the week and the week-end to whip a squad into shape for the opening game here with Lima Tuesday. Hartley doubted whether he would make the final selection of his squad members before Monday.

In yesterday's new arrivals were Pitchers Brooks of Portland, Ore., and DeWitt from Detroit, both right handers.

Four players are due in from Hornell, N. Y., tomorrow, and four more from the Richmond, W. Va., team are also scheduled to come in Saturday. Those from Richmond are coming on option.

Meanwhile, there were other promising developments at the park. A city grader started to work on the grounds today, although some sections of the field were still too wet to be worked. If fair weather holds out, team officials hope to have the grounds in pretty fair shape for the opener.

Another development was the delivery last night of some lumber to repair the stadium seats. Volunteer workers from the carpenter's union were to begin work on the seats tonight, and follow through later with work on a roof for the stadium when sufficient lumber for the job has been obtained.

The Lincoln park diamonds are expected to be the scene of almost constant activity between now and time for the opening game. Weather has handicapped both workouts of players and work on the grounds and stadium, but Manager Hartley felt confident today that a few days of clear weather will enable the workers and players to get the most urgent work out of the way before the opener.

Umpires Assigned for Opening Games

COLUMBUS, O., April 28.—Frank M. Colley, acting president of the Ohio State Baseball league, today announced the signing of six umpires for the 1944 season.

Chief of the staff will be Art Meier of Columbus. Others will be Jack Norris of Indianapolis, Allen Angelo of Brownsville, Pa., Frank Shaback of Barboursville, O., C. R. (Pete) Winner of West Mansfield, O., and John F. Azall of Newark, N. J.

Umpire assignments for the opening day games next Tuesday will be:

Zanesville at Newark (Meier and Azall); Lima at Marion (Shaback and Winner); Springfield at Middletown (Norris and Angelo). The assignments for the second "openers" on next Thursday will be:

Newark at Zanesville (Shaback and Angelo); Marion at Lima (Norris and Azall); Middletown at Springfield (Meier and Winner). The umpires will meet here next Monday for a discussion of the rules.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press
Jim Tobin, Braves — Hurled first no-hit, no-run game in major league since 1914 and hit home run in beating Brooklyn, 2-0.

Walker Cooper, Cardinals — Came through with pinch-hit double in ninth for Cardinals' 3-2 decision over Cincinnati.

Nelson Potter, Browns — Scattered seven Cleveland safeties in straight victory.

Bob Swift, Tigers — Doubled with two in 12th to break up duel between Hal Newhouse and Thornton Lee of Chicago White Sox, winning for Detroit, 2-0.

BOND FOR HITTERS

WICHITA, Kan., April 28.—The National Baseball Congress will present a $1,000 bond to the No. 1 sandlot hitter for 12 or more games in the National Association of leagues this year, Raymond Dumont, president of the congress, said today. The games, Dumont added, must be officially scored by the box scores approved by a member of the National Association of Scorers.

JIM TOBIN PITCHES BOSTON TO NO-HIT VICTORY. Jim Tobin, 31-year-old right-handed veteran of the Boston Braves, is pictured here as he crossed home plate after hitting a third-inning home run during his own no-hit game against the Brooklyn Dodgers. Tobin's performance marked the first major league no-hit since 1941 and was the first by a Brave pitcher since 1916. Final score was Boston 2, Brooklyn 0. (International)

SERVICE MEN HOLD RELAY SPOTLIGHT

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Service men held the spotlight today as 2,000 track and field athletes assembled under clearing skies for the University of Pennsylvania's 50th annual relay carnival.

More than a score of Army, Navy and Coast Guard outfits were among the 300 institutions represented in the two-day festival, scheduled to open at 2 p. m. (EWT) with the 400-meter hurdles.

Two service stars—Pvt. Al Blazio and Army Air Cadet Archie Harris—were ruled ineligible yesterday, but their comrades in arms looked like the men to beat on the 60-event program.

Today's feature, the two mile run, matched Ensign Olin Hunter, former Notre Dame speedster now at the Columbia midshipmen's school, with such other Navy blue winners as Lt. (jg) Herman Gaffner of Cape May Coast Guard, in for a national 10,000-meter champion, and Merle Knox, former Wisconsin star who now is a V-5 cadet at Penn.

Twenty-seven men were entered in the two-mile, which Hunter won last year.

DES MOINES, April 28.—Iowa's interscholastic track and field youngsters confidently took over the spotlight today as Drake university opened its 35th annual relay carnival. Approximately 450 high school jads, representing 44 schools, were given the featured roles, Drake having postponed until Saturday the initial performances of the university and college athletes in deference to the Navy's 48-hour absence-from-base rule.

CLEANUP HITTER

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 28.—The cleanup hitter on the Lehigh university baseball team is 4-F because of his eyesight. He could not even see the bat without his glasses, reports Mel Moorhouse of the university news bureau.

Snatches of Sports

By The Associated Press

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, April 28.—When A.A.U. advised the Penn relays for the University of Pennsylvania's 50th annual relay carnival.

More than a score of Army, Navy and Coast Guard outfits were among the 300 institutions represented in the two-day festival, scheduled to open at 2 p. m. (EWT) with the 400-meter hurdles.

Two service stars—Pvt. Al Blazio and Army Air Cadet Archie Harris—were ruled ineligible yesterday, but their comrades in arms looked like the men to beat on the 60-event program.

Today's feature, the two mile run, matched Ensign Olin Hunter, former Notre Dame speedster now at the Columbia midshipmen's school, with such other Navy blue winners as Lt. (jg) Herman Gaffner of Cape May Coast Guard, in for a national 10,000-meter champion, and Merle Knox, former Wisconsin star who now is a V-5 cadet at Penn.

Twenty-seven men were entered in the two-mile, which Hunter won last year.

DES MOINES, April 28.—Iowa's interscholastic track and field youngsters confidently took over the spotlight today as Drake university opened its 35th annual relay carnival. Approximately 450 high school jads, representing 44 schools, were given the featured roles, Drake having postponed until Saturday the initial performances of the university and college athletes in deference to the Navy's 48-hour absence-from-base rule.

CLEANUP HITTER

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 28.—The cleanup hitter on the Lehigh university baseball team is 4-F because of his eyesight. He could not even see the bat without his glasses, reports Mel Moorhouse of the university news bureau.

REDS CAN'T BEAT CARDS EVERY DAY

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 28.—Having found they can't beat the St. Louis Cardinals every day in the week, the Cincinnati Reds play host today to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Max Butcher for the Pirates and Ed Heusser for the Reds are the pitchers.

The Cardinals broke a five-game winning streak for the Reds yesterday with a 3-2 victory completed in the last two innings.

The Reds depended heavily on rookie Tom De La Cruz for their pitching, but the Cards finally got to him in the eighth to end 21 scoreless innings.

Two walks and a double by Emil Verban gave the Cards two runs, and although the Reds tied the score in their half of the inning in similar fashion, two walks and a double by Gee Walker, the Cards moved out in the ninth and the Reds couldn't repeat their duplication.

Clyde Shoun, who came in after De La Cruz was lifted for a pinch-hitter, walked Stan Musial, who scored when Walker Cooper's line drive to center field was misjudged sufficiently by Dain Clay to go for a double.

If it means anything this early in the season, the defeat dropped the Reds to third place, from which they could bounce with a victory today.

SOX ARE TORN 10 TO 6

A five-run first inning was mainly responsible for a 10 to 6 victory chalked up by the Marion Shamrocks over the Browne Blue Sox in an independent baseball game at Harding stadium Wednesday night. Jim Lawler and Elvin Beach formed the winning battery while Rex Kilbourn and Bob Virden on the mound and Dick Drollinger behind the plate.

Charged with the loss, Beach led the Shamrock offense with four hits in four trips and two runs batted in.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"YOU'VE got time," Jim said, with the patient acceptance of necessity which is always his. "I'd like to have you say that over again once more, I think I'd be more apt to get it straight for Major Grantland."

"Of course, Jim," I said, and forthwith repeated the message about the war which I wished him to give to Hugh. He listened intently, and when I had finished, picked up the rug, and then looked in troubled fashion at the damp spot on the floor.

"I'll hurry back as fast as I can, and mop up this mess," he said. "Then it will be all damp, and nobody will think anything about it."

Good Idea

"That is a very good idea," I said. "Tell Major Grantland what you have planned and that you have to hurry back. Then he won't delay you."

"Okay, I get it," Jim said, and with the wet rug depending gingerly from his powerful hand—I guessed that he wisely wanted no untold dampness on his own sleeve—he hurriedly went out of the passageway and up the back stairs, from which I knew he would make his way to the attic and from there down to the dining room where the portions of chicken which Mother Graham and I liked, the drumstick for which Faith always pleaded, and portions of potato and the buttered asparagus which were the savory success characterizing all of Katie's culinary efforts. The plates of salad were already on the table, as was Faith's glass of milk, so, leaving the dessert and coffee for later, I took in the big tray with the dinner plates, and set them around.

"I didn't wait for you with the soup," Mother Graham said apologetically. "I thought it better not to, on Faith's account."

Right Thing

"You did exactly right," I said. "I'll just take this soup, turn out, get myself a hot cup from the kettle on the stove, dump the contents of this tray into the kettle, and then the soup will be just right for Katie and Jim."

"A very good plan," my mother-in-law approved, and in another minute, I was eating my hot soup with gusto, covering my dinner plate the while to keep it hot.

Not that I needed to keep it hot. With the sense of urgency which had been upon me when Sherry had been at the kitchen door, I hurried through my dinner, and did not demur when I saw that my mother-in-law, usually a leisurely diner, was also getting through the meal with dispatch. Faith, also, for a wonder, did not dawdle when she had finished her dinner, looked at me and asked sweetly, "And now, Mimi, may I have a great-great big dish of ice cream?"

"Not a great, great big dish," I said, but my usual answer to her was, "I'll get it right away."

I dashed to the kitchen, put on a tray the coffee pot, cups and saucers, sugar and cream, pieces of pie for Mother Graham and myself, and Faith's ice cream with one of the tiny cookies she adores. I brought the tray back into the dining room, served us all, and in record time, we were all finished.

"Faith," I said, "I'm going to give you a big treat. Granzie is going to help you get ready for bed, and she's going to tell you a story. I am sure. When you're all tucked into bed, I will come up and kiss you good night. Now, will you be a good girl and go with Granzie?"

She looked up at me with the enchanting smile that only a little child can give, and said with enthusiasm: "I'll be the bestest girl you ever saw!"

"I swooped" her from her chair, kissed her and set her on the floor. She immediately ran to her grandmother and put her hand confidently in that of the older woman.

"I'll be up in a few minutes—if I am not disturbed," I told Mother Graham, and she shot me an understanding glance.

"If you are," she said, "I'll manage. I'll see to everything!"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Deep Breathing

Some years ago Dr. Edward H. Schaefer, of Sedalia, Missouri, was practicing in a city where he had the opportunity to examine a number of singers and vocal teachers and their pupils. He was impressed with the breathing capacity and chest expansion which their occupation had induced in them, and furthermore, that they were comparatively free from the respiratory difficulties and heart inefficiencies of others. Applying this to general practice, his experience showed that if he could teach patients with heart trouble to take deep breaths systematically a great deal of the discomfort they had would go away. Much of this discomfort is due to gaseous distention of the bowels which limited the action of the lungs and had to be deliberately overcome by forced deep breathing.

Patients with angina pectoris can often overcome a threatened attack by taking deep forced breaths and continuing the exercises for several minutes. Even fainting attacks can be prevented by this prolonged breathing. Many patients of this sort who had been taking remedies without benefit were made quite comfortable and free from attacks after a course of forced breathing exercises.

Benefits of Deep Breathing

The subject has certainly been neglected by the medical profession all over the world. One or two observers have written about it, but there has been no general trial of their recommendations. Dr. Lohr, Gottlieb Tirlin, of Munich, several years before the war, advocated breathing exercises for relief of high and low blood pressure.

In 1920 he wrote: "The mechanism-physiological procedure of deep and prolonged breathing for high blood pressure is explained by more blood being taken up in the large veins of the chest; more blood passes into the right cavities of the heart. Deep breathing increases vital capacity more than ordinary tidal breathing. Ordinarily a person of fair lung capacity is able to hold his breath after deep inhalation about twenty seconds, but one who has high blood pressure is unable to do so longer than six seconds."

It is worth a trial, even if Dr. Tirlin's claims about the relief of high blood pressure seem somewhat exaggerated. The habit of systematic daily deep breathing exercises morning and evening might well be undertaken by all of us over thirty to help our heart and circulation. They can even be taken in bed by invalids.

Deep Breathing Exercises

"I impress upon my patients," writes Dr. Schaefer, "the importance of exhalation with the mouth open, not through the nose, and to sound the vowel 'u' thus enabling them to bring on the deepest effort of expiration. Furthermore I have the patients use this method three or four times a day and continue for five or six minutes duration. The first week they may lie down, then sit up, finally stand up, always breathing fresh air by an open window or in the open air. Even during the first few days one can determine how the patient reacts to this breathing therapy. It can be noticed that the dilated heart of hypertension becomes smaller, which may be determined by X-ray exposure."

"There is a well-known professional class, the singers, for whom deep breathing is essential in their vocation. For this reason I had one of my assistants examine opera singers in Munich. Among 100 singers there was not one of either sex who had high blood pressure. Although most of the people, as a rule, are subjected to the vicissitudes of a life in a large city, retiring late at night and always under a nervous strain it was apparent that they were on a low border of blood pressure.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. L. M.—Are the major kidney diseases (I have diabetes and Bright's disease in mind) detected definitely in the urine?

Answer: Yes. In 99 cases out of 100. Should be checked by a blood test.

R. B.—I am 22 years of age, weight 180 pounds and am 5 ft. 5 inches in height. Am I overweight, and what drug should I use to reduce?

Answer: Your ideal weight is 124. No one should take a drug for reducing except on the advice of a physician who has had the opportunity of a personal examination. A diet is safe and effective.
